fiserv.

Streamline H#14msgH4Gn77 (H)10g8.09xy Ra

Driven by the COVID-19 pandemic and economic assistance payments, 2020 was a record-setting year for ACH. Payment volume increased by more than two billion payments over the prior calendar year. Growth in 2021 continued to be robust.

Much of that volume is here to stay. Direct deposit, bill pay and person-to-person exchanges have VYWta Y"dYfa UbYbhYl dYWfUhJcbg']b'Wtbgi a Yfgfa]bXg" ACH makes those transactions simple and safe for customers.

3. Standardization

Financial institutions that operate a single payments system have a serious operational advantage over their competition and increase the value proposition cZh\Y]f'h\Wbc'c[m'Dfcj Yb'k cf_ùck g'UbX'hfU]b]b[can be leveraged across the entire technology stack, enabling staff to support the payments environment more holistically. Plus, an enterprise approach can easily accept new and emerging rails, such as FedNow real-time payments and Zelle* Disbursements. That positions the institution to rapidly generate revenue from new opportunities.

4. Flexibility

BYI H [Yb 57 < []j Yg øbUbWJU]bgh]hi h]cbg h\ Y ù Yl]V]]hm to continuously collect, clear and settle payments, including single-item settlements. No longer bound to batch-based dependencies or other processing k]bXck gžøbUbWJU]bgh]hi h]cbg WUb dfcWfgg hfUbgUMJcbg on arrival – or even accommodate later cutoffs.

5. Transparency

Customers now expect more timely and detailed <code>]bZcfa Uhjcb UVci hh</code>\Y]f dUma Ybhgžk \Yh\Yf h\YmfY outgoing, incoming or cross-border payments. Financial institutions also need greater visibility into alerts and related account information. With an advanced ACH processing solution, staff can manage exceptions online, in real time and reach resolutions faster. Likewise, managers can access detailed reporting in a few clicks, from foundational dashboards to rich data insights. Decision-makers get the data they need, in the form most useful to them.

5Xj UbWYX'57 < 'dfcWfgg]b['gc'i h]cbg'[]j Y'øbUbVJU' institutions more agility. When ACH is part of an integrated enterprise solution, new capabilities can be implemented without special programming or extensive training. That lowers the risk associated with managing multiple rails and SLAs – and improves staff satisfaction and retention.

K cf_uck g'UfY'U'gc'fY`]UV'Y'UbX'dfYX]WfUV'Yž'gc']hg'YUg]Yf' to optimize performance. And high levels of automation and straight-through processing (STP) give staff the freedom to pursue more meaningful tasks.

DfcWgg]b[z'WYUf]b['UbX'gYHiYa Ybh'UfY'U``g]a d`]øYX' by modernizing ACH. Staff no longer have to wait for the processing window to run to work an exception; dcc`g`cZ'dUma Ybhg`WJb`VY'UXXfYggYX'Ug`gccb`Ug`h\YmfY' detected and hit the screen.

BYI H; Yb 57 < VYbYølg a cfY h Ub 1 ghih Y dUma Yblg team. Continuous inbound collection and increased GHD fygi h b 2 Jgh f dfc W gg]b [ž 2 Jgh f dUma Yblg UbX faster settlement, which are differentiating features for customers.

Advanced ACH capabilities increase customer-centricity cj YfU`"K]h\\c`]gh\WUW\gg'rc`UW\ci bhXUrUz\øbUb\yU`institutions can optimize payment routing and create W ghca]nYX'dUma Ybh'gc`i h\cbg'Uh'g\W'Y"5bX'\øbUb\y\U`institutions can develop tailored, demand-driving products – without outspending the competition.

To future-proof your payments business, start advancing cbY cZh\Y c XYghrcc g]b h\Y duma Ybrg hfUXY. 57<" G][b]@WUbh[U]bg]b Z bWgcbU]muUY gi fY rc dfcj]XY long-term value for your organization and its customers.

Laura Clary is a Senior Director, Product Management in the Enterprise Payments Solutions division at Fiserv, k]th a cfY th Ub &) 'nYUfg cZYI dYf]YbWY]b øbUbWJU services. Prior to joining Fiserv, she was a director in th Y FYHU] 'Duma Ybbg C ZøWY cZth Y: YXYfU FYgYfj Y Bank of Atlanta, responsible for various ACH-related initiatives over her 10-year tenure. Passionate about payments and payments evolution, she is an accredited ACH professional and has served on several industry work groups and councils. She currently serves on the Business Payments Advisory Committee of the Nacha Payments Innovation Alliance.

Connect With Us

Fiserv is driving innovation in Payments, Processing Services, Risk & Compliance, Customer & Channel Management and Insights & Optimization. Our solutions \Y`d`WJYbtg`XY`]j Yf`øbUbWJU`gYfj JWg`Uh` the speed of life to enhance the way people live and work today.

Visit to learn more.